

Sometimes the open fire in the earth floor or the brazier were used for cooking. Several metal rods were laid on the brazier to make a kind of grate. The cooking pans were set on this grate.

A home might have a special small clay stove just for boiling food. This might look something like this.

This kind of stove needed only a little fuel.